Patriot of the Month, December 2007
William Mallory

Like so many men of his generation who put aside their personal goals and dreams, William Mallory joined the military when World War II broke out. William joined the Air Force in 1943 and trained as a tail gunner. He served in England and Italy. He received a Presidential citation for the many missions he completed as a tail gunner.

When he left the Air Force in 1945, he began teaching veterans who were returning from the war. After 11 years in that position, he began teaching Vocational Agriculture at Bowling Green R-1 School. He retired after 29 years in the classroom.

William was married to Reva for 53 years. He has three sons and three grandchildren. He attends Bowling Green Christian Church where he has served as a deacon.

William is a member of Lions Club International, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Agriculture Teachers Union, and is a 32nd Degree Mason.

Pam Williams and the members of Bowling Green Chapter are proud to nominate William Mallory for Patriot of the Month.
